INTRODUCTION.

THE MARYLAND CALENDAR OF WILLS has been compiled in response to an already long existent and steadily increasing need for such a work, a need not only of the students of the history of the period which it covers and of genealogists, nor only for Marylanders now living in the State, but also for that large class of persons, whose ancestors are to be numbered among the men and women who took part in the nation-building as begun on Maryland shores, and whose descendants are now to be found in every State of the Union.

Nor is it believed that the usefulness of the work will be confined within historical and genealogical limits, but that it will carry out yet another object and be of much assistance in tracing titles to properties. To this end all names of properties and their acreage and situation, as far as practicable, and as given in the wills, will be found in the Calendar, and can readily be followed by reference to the index. Whenever a will shows the means, by which a property came into the possession of a testator, whether by purchase, deed of gift, or descent, the facts as stated there will be found given in the Calendar.

It will also be seen that if there is any matter which would serve to indicate whence an emigrant came, or what religious creed he held, such references will be found in these pages. This holds true also, as to any definite point bearing on the history of the period, which can be properly noted. In compiling the work the aim has been to adopt a plan sufficiently simple to make the abstracts clear and to avoid technicalities, while at the same time they are made full enough to include all necessary data. In some instances there may be a degree of ambiguity, but this cannot be avoided, since in these instances the recorded wills are in themselves obscure, and no attempt has been made by the compiler to give an interpretation where the meaning is not obvious. This must be left to the searcher in these matters.

A special point in this connection may be noted, i. e. that the terms father-in-law, mother-in-law, etc., very often mean step-father, step-mother, etc., and often too, those bearing these relationships to a testator will be called father, mother, etc., in this latter case further designating them by their names. It was also apparently the custom to use the term cousins as applying to nieces and nephews as well as to cousins.

Of course no attempt has been made to indicate in the Calendar these instances, that being outside the scheme of the work, but by some little study and comparison of the wills, the true relationship, in most cases, where doubtful, is easily established.

The orthography having been preserved, the same name may appear spelled in a variety of ways, a fact already familiar to those persons who have given attention to the early manuscripts.

Nor must it be forgotten that the earliest will records are many times very imperfect documents, extremely meagre in data.

All the abstracts in the Calendar have been taken directly from the wills, as recorded in the will-books among the proceedings of the Prerogative Court of the Province (barring two, which have been found elsewhere, and will again be referred to). These will-books are now in the vault connected with the office of Register of Wills of Anne Arundel County. The sequence of events by which this particular office came to be the repository for the wills of the whole province of Maryland forms an interesting little chapter of history which cannot be gone into here.*

The two wills referred to, as not being recorded in Annapolis, are those of John Lloyd and Cuthbert Fenwick. The abstracts of these will be found on the last page. I am indebted to Mr. Philip J. Buckler, register of wills of St. Mary's county, for the abstract of the former. That of the will of the latter is taken from Liber S, which is in the vault at the rooms of the Maryland Historical Society.

It may be well to remind the reader that at the time of making these wills the Gregorian Calendar had not been adopted. Unless this is borne in mind many of the wills would appear to have been probated before they were drawn.

In the arrangement of the Calendar of Wills that of the will-books themselves has been adopted, in so far as they follow each other chronologically.

The index is designed with the view of showing all names of persons and places found in the text and all references to them.

The abstracts are made in the third person, as is obvious. In a few cases, however, it has appeared well to introduce a pronoun in the first person, which will be found indicated by quotation marks, the phraseology in the entire work having been adopted with the object of attaining the results that would convey the import with strictest accuracy, even at the risk of some loss of uniformity.

Each volume of this work is complete in itself in matter and index.

With the hope that the Calendar will fulfill its mission by aiding and encouraging research, and at the same time will bring into more general notice the invaluable records of Maryland's early settlers, and through stimulating a greater interest in them it will bring about a keener and more vigorous attention to the preservation of these records, this first volume is respectfully submitted.

JANE BALDWIN.

*Since writing the above introduction to the first edition of this work, in 1901, these records have been removed, by legislative act, to the land office at Annapolis.

KEY.

The name of the testator is in Bold Type; those persons bearing relationship to the testator, if stated in the will, are in bold type also. All others are in Roman Type. The county of testator follows the name in the same line if it is given in the will itself, and if none appears in the abstract the inference must be drawn that it is lacking in the will.

The dates of drawing and of the probate of each are placed one above the other, opposite the name of testator; that of probate under that of drawing. If either date does not appear in the Calendar a line of dashes is placed in the respective place to indicate the fact that it is lacking in the will as recorded, and if, as is the case in a few instances, neither date of drawing nor that of probate appears in the will, a double line of dashes is substituted.

The numbers at the foot of each abstract give the number of the book and the page from which it has been taken. The book numbers and not the old liber numbers are used, this being in accordance with the system usual with genealogists in making notes from these books.

It will be seen that in many instances overseers or trustees are named by testators. The custom now being obsolete it is best explained by a quotation from one of the wills where a testator, after designating several friends for the office, adds: "who shall assist the executrix in the care of the estate that neither she nor the children be wronged?"

Nunc. placed after a name indicates that the will was a nuncupative one.

Young. is used in the calendar as the abbreviation of youngest.

Test., the abbreviation of testis and testes, has been adopted in accordance with the custom of the times rather than the more modern term of witnesses. The other abbreviations and terms are so simple that explanation of them seems needless, since they do not differ from those in ordinary use.
